Introduction

What you will find in this report

This report contains the results of the feedback collected for you. These results are presented to help you identify your strengths, areas for development, and areas where your ratings may diverge with individuals providing you feedback.

We hope that you remember from your own experience how difficult it can be to provide others with this type of feedback, be open to considering their opinions, and be willing to use their feedback in your development.

Goals of the 360 Degree Feedback

Multi-Source Feedback presents a more complete picture of an individual's behavior and performance by drawing information from different perspectives within the work environment. It gives recipients a resource to guide their development, and reviewers' additional input.

Feedback from multiple sources helps you in several ways, including increasing awareness of your strengths, how you are perceived by others in different roles, and providing input for your professional development.

Receiving Feedback

Receiving feedback is a tremendous opportunity to discover how you are perceived by others which may be similar or dissimilar to how you perceive yourself. It is important to reflect on your feedback as a tool to help you set specific goals for professional development. This can be done when you see the feedback as it is, a perspective on where you may improve your performance and working relationships. It is important to realize that seeking and receiving constructive feedback is the only way we can see our "blind spots." This feedback may help us to understand the negative impact our actions may unintentionally have on others.

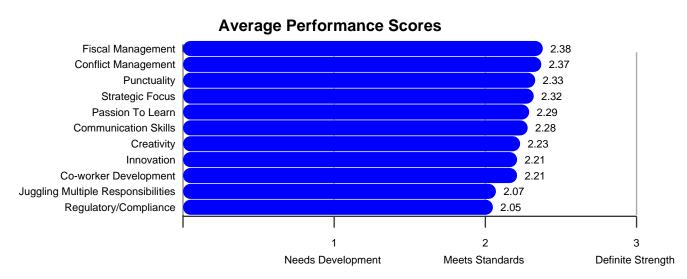

What to Do with Your Feedback

Use your feedback to help you develop awareness and set goals for developing your effectiveness. This can be done if you see the feedback as multiple perspectives on where you are already strong or can improve in the defined areas of effectiveness.

Summary

The questionnaire items used in this feedback process asked respondents to rate specific behaviors and competencies identified by [Your Company Name] current leaders. These behaviors and competencies fall into 11 major dimensions of leadership.

The summary scores for each dimension shown below were calculated by averaging all respondents' scores for all of the questions within that dimension. These dimension summary scores are sorted from high to low, with the highest shown at the top. The dimensions toward the bottom may need the most development.

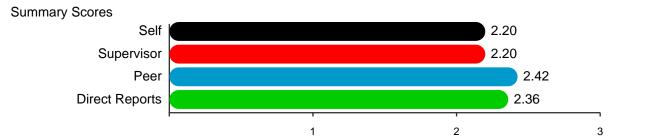

Gap Analysis

The following table graphically displays the "Gap," or difference between your average rating on each competency (labeled "Self") and the average score of all other respondents (labeled "Others") who provided you with feedback. This can help you identify blind spots, or areas where you were rated more favorably by other respondents than by yourself. The Gaps for these competencies are colored in shades of green. Conversely, the graph can also help you identify your opportunities for improvement, or areas where you rated yourself higher than others did. The Gaps for these dimensions are colored in shades of red. The darker the shade of green or red, the larger the Gap. Finally, if a dimension's Gap is not shaded with a specific color, it indicates an area of agreement between yourself and others.

- Positive energy and a team player.
- ____ provides opportunities for her staff to grow professionally and encourages them.
- ____ is dedicated, caring, respectful and an overall amazing person, who very obviously strives for continuous improvement. She has a very good understanding of what I do and is very effective in helping me to see things I could be doing better and where my focus should be.
- Understanding that the progress towards a more definitive house supervisor does take time, I would like to see a more proactive approach in allowing the department to make decisions.
- Provide regular updates on the progress of work/tasks/projects.
- she is perceived, at times, as taking over in areas that aren't her responsibility and this can cause tension within the team. Working more collaboratively with her collegues can help avoid this as her intentions are always good, but may not always be perceived that way. A greater presence (i.e. less travel to conferences) would be appreciated by others as well.

Comments

Those who gave you feedback had the opportunity to provide additional written comments about perceived strengths and possible development areas. This section provides a consolidated list of these comments.

What would help make you a more effective leader?

- Whenever ___ has assigned one of her staff to a project the quality and commitment of that staff person has been of a high caliber (as if ___ was there). She also participated in interviews within my department ans was a valuable member.
- ___ does a great job in supporting and engaging all of her employees.
- Is viewed by many as a strong organizational resource.
- ___ is very visible on the unit. Spending many hours with staff.
- I wish I had 5 more years to learn from ____. She teaches me with every interaction.
- She puts the customer experience first and expects that from the staff as well. She has been a wonderful role model for the rest of the unit.

What do you like best about working with this individual?

- An all around great person who is knows smart, is not arrogant, willing to teach, and willing to give & receive honest feedback.
- ___ has good knowledge and awareness of the strengths and talents within the organization.
- ___ has been very effective at establishing expectations for her teams, and anyone that cannot meet those expectations are dealt with accordingly, in a fair, transparent, and straightforward manner.
- has improved on her quick assessment of situations and as a result it has helped me improve also
- Need to take in all opinions, not just those of employees who are not always truthful....
- One of the things that I most appreciate about ___ is her willingness to mentor and grow new talent.

What do you like least about working with this individual?

- She communicates well to all staff and we know what is expected of us.
- She is admired for her desire to engage in opportunities to challenge herself professionally and seek continuous learning and growth opportunities.
- ___ is very dedicated. She makes sure she is here all times of the day to capture evening shift staff.
- ___ has been very effective at establishing expectations for her teams, and anyone that cannot meet those expectations are dealt with accordingly, in a fair, transparent, and straightforward manner.
- She has grown as a manager in the last few months and it shows.
- Employees were not encouraged to do anything besides come to work.

What do you see as this person's most important leadership-related strengths?

- This past year we have gone through many changes and some difficult situations and she is always here to support us as a department.
- Demonstrates a focus on the business goals through task prioritization.
- ___ is a solid asset to the human resources division and the [CompanyName] senior management team.
- ___ always stays customer and community focused. She's also an excellent collaborator and always supportive and positive with others.
- is a very effective leader and excellent communicator.
- I have only worked under ____ for a short time but I am impressed often at her excellent leadership skills and ability to guide her staff under the competency model.

What do you see as this person's most important leadership-related areas for improvement?

- I admire for her vision and ability to think outside the box to better meet our organization's needs.
- I have found ____ to be very knowledgeable regarding the appropriate resources despite the fact that she is fairly new in her position.
- What I like is her standard line what resources do you need from me to make this work?
- The team should be able to function independently when she's not here, but her involvement in projects at the staff level prevents them from doing that because they feel they need her input, permission or approval before moving forward. If she left the day-to-day work to the director to handle, including management of the team, her role could be more focused on setting direction and a vision for the department vs. getting involved in daily or routine tasks.

- She is strong and firm in her decisions, but involves her entire team in those decisions.
- Is dedicated, selfless, trustworthy and focused on the big picture.
