Introduction

What you will find in this report

This report contains the results of the 360-degree feedback collected from a combination of yourself, management, and peers. These results are presented in a variety of formats to help you identify your strengths, areas for development, and areas where your ratings may diverge from those of the individuals providing you feedback. Please recognize the time and effort your respondents put into providing you with this feedback, be open to their opinions, and be willing to use their feedback as a starting point for your learning and development.

Goals of the 360 Degree Feedback

1. Increased mindfulness
2. Greater awareness of the leadership and management competencies the company is seeking to develop
3. Greater clarity about strengths to build on and areas to improve
4. Improved goal-setting for personal and professional development
5. More frequent and open communication between yourself and others about what is working well and what needs to be improved
6. Increased comfort with seeking and receiving feedback
7. Increased comfort with giving feedback

Receiving Feedback

Hearing from others how they perceive you is challenging for everyone, especially if their perceptions are different from your own. Remember that their feedback is as much about them as about you. At the same time, others' perceptions of you form the real basis of your relationships. It is a precious gift to learn from others how they perceive you, for with that information you can begin to improve your relationships and teamwork on a truly solid foundation. Give your emotional responses to the feedback time to evolve and settle down, then begin the process of making sure you understand what others are saying.

What is Feedforward and What to Do with Your Feedforward

Feedforward is the reverse exercise of feedback. It's the process of replacing positive or negative feedback with future-oriented solutions. In simple terms, it means focusing on the future instead of the past. During the upcoming Leadership sessions, you will have an extended opportunity to work with your coach to interpret your feedback and to begin to prioritize improvements you want to make.

At the end of the sessions, you will have dedicated time to factor these priorities into other session learnings to set a few focused, high-leverage goals and begin to think about how you will pursue those goals.

After the sessions, you should work with your coach to work on that pursuit.

You are encouraged to communicate further with your respondents, both to clarify the meaning of the feedback they have given you and to solicit their support on your self-development journey. Even when people have not self-identified, you can conduct general conversations in which you share what you've learned and seek their further feedforward.

Summary

The questionnaire items used in this feedback process asked respondents to rate 5 competencies of leadership and management. Summary scores for each item were calculated by averaging the scores of all your respondents to that item. Your scores for the items in each competency are shown in the bar graph below, with the highest-scored competencies at the top. Your competencies that received the lowest scores appear at the bottom of the graph.

Scores by Competency

Relationship	Headcount
Self	1
Supervisor	1
Peers	5
Direct Reports	6

The results in this report are based on responses collected from individuals in different roles. This table shows the number of responses from individuals in different roles.

These different roles provide different perspectives on your behaviors, competencies, and attributes. And, of course, the perspectives of individuals in each role may be unique.

Gap Analysis

The following table graphically displays the "Gap," or difference between your average rating on each competency (labeled "Self") and the average score of all other respondents (labeled "Others") who provided you with feedback. This can help you identify blind spots, or areas where you were rated more favorably by other respondents than by yourself. The Gaps for these competencies are colored in shades of green. Conversely, the graph can also help you identify your opportunities for improvement, or areas where you rated yourself higher than others did. The Gaps for these dimensions are colored in shades of red. The darker the shade of green or red, the larger the Gap. Finally, if a dimension's Gap is not shaded with a specific color, it indicates an area of agreement between yourself and others.
